

Busy summer for Scituate's CORSE

Posted Sep. 9, 2015

Members of the CORSE program K-3 Social Explorers are all smiles on this summer trip. Courtesy Photo

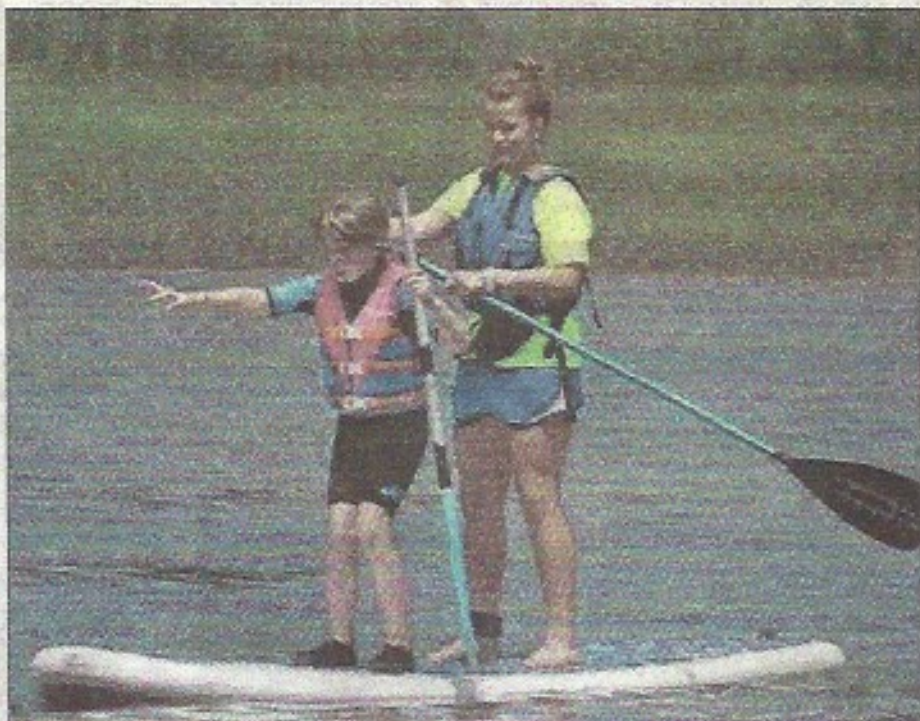

Group serves 190 students this summer

The Scituate CORSE Foundation had a very busy and fun summer. Tracy Johnston, president, said.

CORSE (or Community of Resources for Special Education) ran 12 programs serving 190 student registrations with 53 staff and 104 volunteers.

From social groups and summer academic support, to Scituate Recreation Camps, maritime adventures (sailing, windsurfing and paddle boarding), tennis and iCan Bike, CORSE's integrated programs brought the community's kids of all abilities (typically developing and those with special needs) together, Johnston said.

The CORSE Foundation will host its next big event Saturday, Oct. 17 when it holds its 10th annual gala.

CORSE students enjoyed Maritime Adventures, such as sailing, windsurfing and paddle boarding, this summer. COURTESY PHOTOS

All Stars Summer Extreme drew a big crowd.

Circle of Friends is a classroom based activity that gets kids thinking and moving.

CORSE students got to travel and stay close by for various adventures this summer.

CORSE volunteers help teach the participating students new skills, such as how to play tennis.